Presents

19th Annual May Day Trauma Conference

May 8th, 2008

William and Ida Friday
Center for Continuing Education
The University of North Carolina
at Chapel Hill

Description/Purpose and Target Audience

The 19th Annual May Day Trauma Conference continues to maintain the tradition of creating an annual forum utilizing outstanding faculty and nationally recognized experts know for their contributions to the advancement of trauma care and emergency medical service systems from within North Carolina and the United States. This year's presentations examine diverse subjects in trauma including current trends and critical care issues. The one day conference has been carefully designed to meet the needs of health care professionals involved in the trauma care continuum, including physicians, nurses, and pre-hospital personnel.

Objectives

- Upon completion of the conference, the attendee will be able to:
- Examine contemporary clinical issues in life-threatening injuries in patients from the trauma environment.
- Identify emerging trends and recent advances in the pre-hospital, medical and nursing management of trauma patients.
- Discuss an organized approach to critical decision making with regards to trauma care issues.
- Describe the pathophysiology of specific injuries in caring for trauma patients.
